Better talking in talks

SpeakUp lets the audience anonymously share and rate each other’s questions in a room. The speaker can then easily answer the best ones.

Who uses it?

Teachers

Bruno teaches in large classrooms. He uses SpeakUp to encourage student participation during Q&A sessions and also to get live feedback to continuously improve his lectures.

Speakers

Amy frequently speaks to audiences of over a thousand people. As it is difficult to address all questions, she uses SpeakUp to allow people to post and rate each other’s questions so she can addresses the most popular ones.
